Investigation Insight

The Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act requires the disclosure of a Privacy Policy regarding non-public consumer information. All buy-here/pay-here dealers must notify all customers that are still making payments to the dealer. All dealers assisting in arranging finance for a customer and all dealers who take a credit application from a customer must comply with this new law. The purpose of this act is to insure that financial institutions respect the privacy of their customers and protect the security of non-public personal information. Non-public information includes, but is not limited to, account balance information, payment history and credit card information; information a consumer provides on an application to obtain a loan or any information that a consumer provides to a dealership or information otherwise obtained in connection with collecting or servicing a credit account. As soon as it is determined that you will be involved in the financing of a vehicle, before a credit application is taken, the consumer should be advised of your privacy policy. For detailed information you may wish to contact your dealers association.

Compliance Corner

Many dealers are still confused with the Colorado State Statute regarding title delivery and the issuance of 60-day temporary registration permits. Colorado State Statute, 42-6-112 has not changed. 42-6-112 C.R.S., states "in order to facilitate initial registration of a vehicle, any dealer of motor vehicles, shall have not more than thirty days from the date of sale of such vehicle to deliver or facilitate the delivery of the certificate of title to a purchaser or the holder of a chattel mortgage on such motor vehicle." Therefore, even though the temporary registration permit time frame has been increased to 60 days, all dealers must deliver title within thirty days.

Licensing Leads

by Larry Dyslin, Licensing Manager

We have received some license renewals where the dealer or salesperson is reporting a criminal conviction that occurred several months or even a year ago. The Dealer Law and Board Regulations require any licensed dealer, wholesaler or salesperson to give the Board written notice of any conviction of a felony or any crime pursuant to Title 18, articles 3, 4, or 5 of the Colorado Criminal Code. Such notice must be given within 30 days after receiving final judgment from the court. The licensee is responsible for providing complete information including copies of final judgments and pre-sentence reports. The law also states that failure to provide the required information is grounds for suspension or revocation of a license. We are asking all dealers and managers to cover this requirement in staff meetings so no one has a license revoked because of failure to provide the required notification. Your cooperation will be appreciated.

Colorado law includes trailers in the definition of motor vehicles. Therefore, any dealer who sells trailers must be licensed. If the trailers are new, the dealer must have a franchise or letter from the manufacturer appointing the dealer as an authorized dealer. The manufacturer must also be licensed whether or not they are located in Colorado. When a dealer purchases boats as a package with the trailer included, it is the dealer's responsibility to make sure that the various manufacturers of boat trailers are licensed to do business in Colorado. Check with your boat supplier to obtain a list of trailer manufacturers and ask them if they are licensed in Colorado. This will help you avoid problems and possibly complaints from your customers when their application for title is rejected by the county clerk because the manufacturer is not licensed.
