As a community member and a liquor store owner, I agree 100% with the above email. I have witnessed under age walking out of Walmart and Kroger stores with strong beer and malt beverages and wine. Doubtful it was paid for as there is no special, managed section for these products. They are randomly strung throughout the store, and in our locale with very small stores, at the deprivation of needed FOOD products.

I find this also out-of-touch from the chain stores. Community members who are in recovery should not have to move a case of wine to access bread or diapers.

This should have been a county-by-county ballot decision. Any further ballot propositions need to be subject to local county rejection.

Respectfully,
