COMPLIANCE ALERT TO INDUSTRY

Dear Liquor Stakeholders,

With news of highly effective vaccines and advances in treatment regarding the COVID-19 pandemic, we are finally beginning to see a possible turning point in our extensive efforts to protect ourselves and our communities from this devastating virus. We know that the on-premises alcohol beverage industry has been particularly hard-hit by public health and safety restrictions that greatly affect their business models and know that many businesses are facing what seem to be impossible choices on a daily basis.

The Liquor Enforcement Division has been working tirelessly for and with our licensees as we strive to weather this storm together. We have taken an education-forward approach when out in the field, striving for voluntary compliance with the public health and executive orders currently in place so that we may see a robust return of our industry in the fastest possible time frame. Only by taking extensive safety precautions now can we hope to alleviate the strains on our communities and businesses associated with this unprecedented crisis.

To that end, we would like to offer our immense gratitude and appreciation for our licensees that have put forth the effort to follow public health guidance and place exceptional focus on the safety and health of their customers and neighbors. While not exhaustive, the following list is illustrative of how many of you we have recently visited and observed first-hand that are placing Coloradans first in the operation of your businesses.
